INVESTIGATE CHARGE OF BARBAROUS ACT

LITTLE GIRL IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN CRUELLY BEATEN
BY FATHER.

MAY AMPUTATE HER ARM

Elbow is Terribly Crushed and Results Will Be Serious in Any Event.

The local officers are investigating a case of alleged cruelty to a child by a Dixon father which, if found to be true, will stamp the parent as a brute of the lowest possible calibre, and will surely result in his arrest and prosecution. The charge is that the father, while in a rage Monday evening, cruelly beat his little daughter and in his frenzy crushed one of her elbows badly.

The little one has been taken to the Dixon hospital, where she is being treated by the county physician, but it is feared it will be necessary to amputate the injured member above the elbow. In case this tragic action can be avoided it is absolutely certain the girl will never have much use of the joint, as it is crushed most pitifully.

Protects Father.

The little one, however, either from fear or a childish idea of filial duty, refuses to admit that her father is at fault for her serious injury, claiming that while she was breaking up a strawberry box a piece of board flew up and struck her on the joint. The attending physicians and nurses maintain that such an injury as she has received could not possibly be received in that manner. From other sources the authorities are said to have learned that the father inflicted the injury and the investigation is being carried on most thoroughly along that line.

Humane Officer Kent is at work on the case together with States Attorney Edwards and they promise that if there is any chance at all to secure evidence, the girl will be declared dependent, placed in a good home and the father will be dealt with according to law.

BLOOMER GIRLS HERE SATURDAY

MANAGER VAILE OF BROWNS
PICKS UP A LIKELY RECRUIT.

Manager Vaile of the Browns has uncovered a "find" in this city in the shape of an infielder and pitcher. The young fellow, whom Joe expects to be a sensation, is Ed Barnes, and in the workouts he has had with the team this week he looks especially good. He will be taken to taken to Sterling with the team Sunday and Monday and will probably be pitched in one of the games.

Bloomer Girls Here.

Saturday afternoon the Stars will play the famous College Bloomer Girls at Athletic park and the game should prove very interesting. The girls, many of whom are said to be college students, have been playing remarkably good baseball against some of the strongest semi-pro teams in this part of the state and their management promises that they are entirely different from similar organizations in that they are well behaved and are real and genuine female artists.

IMPERATOR SUFFERS

TESTING LIGNITE FOR ENGINES

NORTHWESTERN AND BURLING-TON ROADS TRYING CHEAP-
ER FUEL

Forty locomotives of the Chicago and Northwestern and the Burlington are now engaged in a test of lignite as a fuel. The present cost of company coal in western Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and the Dakotas is from $5 to $6 a ton. Lignite, on the other hand, of which enormous deposits underlie the surface in North Dakota, and parts of adjoining states, may be bought for $1.75 or less. If the present tests demonstrate the practicability of the lignite for fuel, there will be a great saving in fuel costs.

ORPHANS ENJOY CIRCUS TUESDAY

YOUNGSTERS AT ST. VINCENT'S ORPHANAGE ARE GUESTS OF
SHOW MANAGEMENT

The happiest group of children in Freeport Tuesday, were the youngsters at the St. Vincent's orphanage, who were in attendance at the Barnum & Bailey shows in the afternoon, as invited guests of the managers of the big circus.

The tots paraded to the show grounds in a body under the chaperonage of several of the sisters and several persons interested in them. They were nearly 100 in number, and they attracted nearly as much attention as did the big acts in the rings and on the stage, under the big tent. People watched the happy faces and expressions of wonderment of the children with keen enjoyment. It is doubtful whether any one of the children had even been to circus before and not one of them missed an event of the many which were in progress.

The manager of the show, while at the city hall, made the remark that in several cities they had invited the orphans and Mayor Franz was not slow in making the same request for the children of Freeport.

DIXON COLLEGE TO OPEN SEPT. 22

PRESIDENT EDWARDS WILL RE-
OPEN LOCAL INSTITUTION ON THAT DAY.

LIMITED COURSE PROVIDED

Law and Telegraphy Are Dropped
From Curriculum—Dormitories Closed.

The Dixon College and Normal School will open its fall term Monday, September 22, at which time President I. F. Edwards will open the school for instruction in the following courses:

Shorthand,
Typewriting,
Commercial Course,
Vocal and Instrumental Music,
Art,
Oratory,
Preparatory,
Teachers' Course.

No Dormitories.

Mr. Edwards will issue a bulletin the first of next week stating that neither of the dormitories of the school will be conducted this year, but that provisions will be made to house and board students at neighboring residences, thus making it convenient for those who wish to attend the school.

The studies of Law and Telegraphy have been dropped from the school's curriculum and these and other changes which President Edwards has provided for will of course reduce the faculty. However, the term promises to be a successful one for President Edwards has received inquiries from over 100 prospective students asking for enrollment in the local college.

VOTE ON NEW SCHOOL IN N. D. THIS EVE

OFFER OF LOVELAND SCHOOL WILL PROBABLY BE ACCEPTED.

This evening, from 5 to 8 o'clock, the voters of North Dixon will ballot on whether or not they shall accept George C. Loveland's generous offer of cash for a new school house on a site in Loveland Place.

The new school is badly needed, and the present school directors say that unless the new school is built, an addition must be built onto the old school.

Unless opposition should develop after the opening of the polls, the question will undoubtedly carry.

ARE PLACING POLES.

The additional steel poles for the ornamental street lights have arrived from the foundry and are being placed by the employees of the company. No further work has been received from the brackets which have been awaited so long, but it is hoped and believed they will arrive before the end of the week.

CROWDS TO STERLING.

The Sterling, Dixon & Eastern ran cars and trailers to Sterling today because of the big Barnum & Bailey circus which is there today and the manner in which the cars were loaded was proof that many people from this city and vicinity have not lost their interest in entertainments of this kind.

WILL LIVE IN DIXON.

Mrs. Carrie Cook and daughter, Eula, of Compton are in this city visiting at the home of Mrs. Elnora Mannon. They are looking for a suitable residence, as they wish to make Dixon their future home.

HOLD EXAMINATIONS HERE ON SATURDAY

CANDIDATES FOR HIGHWAY SU-PERINTENDENT TO MEET
HERE SATURDAY.

HELD AT THE COURT HOUSE

Experience in Road Building Necessary Qualification—Is an All-Day Quiz.

An examination of candidates for the positions of county highway superintendents for the counties in this vicinity will be held in County Superintendent L. W. Miller's office at the court house Saturday, Oct. 18, when all who desire to be county highway superintendents in the vicinity must report for their examination. The tests will be under the supervision of the state highway commission.

Under the provisions of the law and the ruling of the highway commission the counties of the state are divided into three groups, Lee county being in the first group, that of counties under 30,000 population. The second group includes counties over 30,000 and under 200,000 population, while the third class, which includes counties over 200,000 population, takes in only Cook county.

Experience Necessary.

The law provides that candidates for the position of county superintendent of highways in Lee county must have had at least 5 years' experience in building country roads and that preference will be given to those who have handled levels and who have done surveying. They must also be able to compute percentages and accounts. In passing on the examinations, the following table of "weights" will be used:

Training and experience, 5 points,
Technical, 1 point,
Practical, 4 points.

Must Be On Time.

The commissioner has ruled also that all candidates for the examination must report at 8:30 a. m. and that those who are 30 minutes late will be denied admission to the room. The main examination will be conducted from 8:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

Candidates for the position are allowed to study the Fourth Annual Report of the State Highway Commission and the Illinois Highway Law, copies of which will be provided for them by the county clerk, and they are allowed to take copies of these works into the examination room and consult them during the quiz.

ROCKFORD GIRLS WERE ARRESTED

LOCAL POLICE RAIDED DOWN-TOWN ROOM AND CAUGHT
PARTY OF FOUR.

Two women, whose actions were of a most suspicious nature, were taken in charge by the police last night after they had been seen entering certain upstairs rooms in the downtown district with two Dixon young fellows, and while they were not placed under arrest nor arraigned before any justice, the officers took them to the Nachusa house and saw they were taken care of for the night and this morning were ordered out of town.

The apprehension of the two females, who said their home was in Rockford, was the result of their "ditching" two Amboy young fellows who brought them here. After supper the women are said to have turned their escorts down and to have picked up the two Dixon fellows, who took them to some upstairs rooms in the business district. The Amboy boys promptly informed the police and as a result of this information the rooms were raided and the four ordered out, the girls being taken to the hotel and the boys being sent home.

George Ulrich of Lee Center was here today.

SHERMAN SOUNDS TARIFF WARNING

ILLINOIS SENATOR SEES FACTO-RIES AND LARDERS EMPTIED
IF MEASURE PASSES.

DELUSION OF THE DEMOCRATS

Wants Income Tax Limited to the Rich and Condemns the Insurance Levy.

Washington, Aug. 27—The entire tariff bill from acetonite to zaffer and the tax income provisions are democratic delusions and inequities, according to Senator Sherman of Illinois, who delivered his first long speech in the senate today.

Mr. Sherman could find nothing in the measure to commend and prophesied the people would pay the penalty of its enactment with silent factories and empty larders. He said he believed in an income tax but that it should be assessed on the rich and on the unearned increment. He denounced particularly the application of the tax to life insurance companies as an exaction of toll from widows and orphans.

"Why do some delude themselves by thinking it possible to lower the cost of everything they buy without lowering the price of anything they have to sell?" exclaimed Mr. Sherman.

Calls Ultimate Consumer Myth.

"This bill is framed on the hallucination of certain political economists that everybody buys more than he sells. The basis of this notion is that overworked ideal individual known as the 'ultimate consumer.' He is supposed to be continually eating, wearing out, drinking voraciously or appropriating to his exclusive use the necessities and luxuries of life ad libitum. For practical purposes he is a myth.

"I shall assume that everybody produces in some form of commodity or service a surplus. This surplus he disposes of to others. If he has none he must at least be a bankrupt. There are no persons but the idle rich and the idle vagrant poor who are not producers of more than they consume.

"The reasoning in this bill describes the various circle in legislation.

Points Tariff Discrepancies.

"Agricultural implements are free listed to give the farmers cheaper implements and punish the International Harvester company. Bananas are made dutiable at 10 per cent a hundred pounds to punish the United Fruit company. We produce $150,000,000 worth of implements here, and use 75 per cent at home. We import all our bananas, and produce none at home.

"Cotton gambling is licensed at 50 cents a bale with no distinction between an intention to deliver or not to deliver actual cotton in the market. Gambling in futures is criminal, its transactions are civilly void and the state courts are closed to all who invoke their remedies. Declare much gambling operated between cities of different states a misdemeanor or by an act of congress. Do not license it. The government thereby becomes a partner in an offense against morals and the rules of legitimate trade."

Condemns Tax on Insurance.

On taxing life insurance, Mr. Sherman said:

"Two extraordinary reasons are given: Some owners in shareholding companies have grown wealthy and must be reached. Certain policy holders carry large lines of insurance, and they must be charged with most of the revenue burdens of the country. Why not reach the owner of the excessive fortune by an income tax and classify policy holders in such a way as to exempt the insurance instead, to shield the family from want in the day when the head of that family can no longer toil for those dependent upon him? The other reason is certain life companies have violated their trust. They have given to campaign funds and made investments in which commissions or other features were subject to criticism.

"Who ever before tried to correct a breach of trust by inflicting fresh injuries upon its victims? This bill penalizes the beneficiaries instead of

SUES THE CITY FOR $ 1, 000. DAMAGES

MRS. JENNIE KEENAN CLAIMS
DAMAGES FOR ACCIDENT ON STREET.

MRS PLEIN SUES EXPRESS CO

Claims $300 for Alleged Loss of Business Caused by Non-Delivery.

The City of Dixon was made defendant in a suit for $1,000 instituted in the circuit court today by Attorney John E. Erwin, suing for Mrs. Jennie Keenan, who alleges she received serious injuries by falling over a plank at the intersection of Crawford avenue and Commercial alley, which she claims prevented her pursuing her usual means of livelihood and caused her a great deal of pain and considerable expense. Her case was presented to the city council some time ago, with a request for a settlement at $200, but the city officials thought she had no case and declined a settlement.

Sues Express Company.

Mrs. Rosalie Plein, one of the managers of the Family theatre, also started a trespass suit in the circuit court today against the American Express company. Mrs. Plein asks damages to the amount of $300 which she claims are the result of loss of business because of the alleged failure of the transportation company to deliver films to her on time.

JULY 4TH VICTIM SUES I. N. U. CO

HENRY HOLLENBECK OF WIN-
NEBAGO STRUCK BY TORPEDO
AS CAR EXPLODED IT.

Through Attorney John E. Erwin, Henry J. Hollenbeck of Winnebago has filed suit in the Lee county circuit court for $2,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received by him on July 4 when, while standing near the car barns on First street, he was struck in the side by a piece of a torpedo which had been placed on the tracks. The torpedo is said to have exploded with great force when a car passed over it and part of the casing is alleged to have inflicted a wound in the plaintiff's right side.

It will be remembered by readers of the Telegraph that the accident, which was the only one of moment reported for the big celebration here that day, that Hollenbeck was taken to the Dixon hospital, where his injuries were dressed, and that he left for home the next day.

TROUBLE GETTING BRICK HERE

Gund & Graham are experiencing considerable inconvenience because of their trouble in getting brick for the West Commercial alley pavement. The Barr brick yards at Streator are rushed to capacity to get out all orders, and in addition three carloads of brick consigned to the local contractors laid on the sidetrack at Amboy for a few days despite the frantic efforts of the Dixonites to get them here.

SHERMAN ATTACKS THE TARIFF BILL

A dispatch from Washington explains why United States Senator L. V. Sherman cannot be present to address the old settlers at their annual picnic at Cedarville tomorrow. The dispatch says: "In the senate today Senator Sherman, of Illinois, attacked the tariff bill, saying it would not produce enough revenue to run the government."

those who violate their duties owing them. Why penalize policy holders for either reason?"

The exemption from civil service of the deputies employed to collect the income tax Mr. Sherman characterized as an attack on the merit rule.

"WILFULLY" IS JOKE IN LAW

LAWYERS SAY AUTO DRIVERS CANNOT BE CONVICTED IF LIGHTS ARE OUT

HARD TO GET THE PROOF

New Point in Traffic Law Raised in Moline—Law Regarding Lights
Is Useless

The short and apparently innocent word "wilfully," discovered by Attorney Gus Shalberg of Moline, in the section of the state automobile law that provides for a fine in case a driver is apprehended with the lights of his machine, either those in front or in the rear, not burning, practically renders that section a dead letter from now on. Attorney Shalberg was retained by P. H. Lorenz, contractor, after that gentleman had been conducted to the police station by Charles Morrison, traffic officer a short time ago, and booked on a state charge alleging that he was running his car without the lights being displayed.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE SET BACK A YEAR IN NEW JERSEY

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 28—Woman suffrage in New Jersey today received a setback of at least one year through an opinion by Assistant Attorney General Gaskill that the failure to properly advertise the proposed change in the state constitution renders impossible the ratification of suffrage by this winter's legislation.

The constitution requires that an amendment be adopted by two successive legislatures before being voted upon by the people, and it is assumed that the amendment passed by the recent legislature would be adopted by the next.

The constitution also provides that an amendment adopted by one legislature shall be published in the newspapers for a period of at least three months prior to the election of members to the succeeding legislature. This means that the advertising of the woman's suffrage amendment should have begun Aug. 4.

For some reason the advertising was not so begun and Assistant Attorney General Gaskill holds that it is now too late to begin the advertising. Hence the amendment will have to be adopted by the 1913 and 1915 legislatures before it can be voted upon.

Roadmaster Leo Ryan of the Galena division of the Northwestern, has a force of seventy men at work on River street raising the tracks, placing new ties there and making such other changes as were decided upon at the recent conference between the city and railway officials.

Ritchie-Bertoli

This morning at 8:30 o'clock at the parish house occurred the marriage of Miss Mary Dorothea Ritchie of this city to Leonard J. Bertoli of Chicago. The ceremony which united this couple was performed by Rev. Moore of the local Catholic church.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tuller where the bride has made her home for the past five years. A dainty wedding breakfast of three courses was served to twenty of the immediate friends and relatives, the general color scheme being pink and white. The gifts were many and beautiful, coming from friends far and near.

Mrs. Bertoli has followed the profession of trained nurse since her residence here, being a graduate of the Agatha hospital of Clinton, Ia., in the class of 1908. The groom is a prosperous young business man, being a salesman for the Morrison-Plummer Drug Co., of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertoli start in life under the most auspicious conditions and their many friends unite in extending heartiest congratulations. They left this morning for a ten days lake trip, and will be at home at 507 Hennepin avenue, Dixon, Ill., after Sept. 25th.

The company left at 10 o'clock sharp and enjoyed a delightful day at this ideal pleasure resort. The dinner was all that could be desired and the appetites of all were in excellent condition. Altogether a most delightful day was enjoyed.

Over 45 were present at the picnic and a delightful feature of the day was the presentation to Mrs. Mary E. Goodrich of a beautiful pin, an emblem of the Ladies of the G. A. R., a star pin. Mrs. Mae Brookner Cupp presented the gift in a neat little speech and Mrs. Goodrich graciously responded, thanking all very much and appreciating the pleasant surprise.

Entertained at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown of the Woosung road entertained seven guests at dinner last evening in honor of Mr. Brown's 65 birthday anniversary. The guests were not supposed to be aware of the fact of it being Mr. Brown's birthday, but in some manner one of the guests learned the fact and the guests therefore clubbed together and presented the host with a handsome gold headed cane of which he is very proud. A very appetizing dinner was served. The table was beautifully decorated with old fashioned clove pinks. After dinner some excellent graphophone music was enjoyed and "Annie Laurie," "Robin Adair," "The Swanee River," and other old favorites were listened to with much delight. After spending a most delightful evening, the guests departed for their homes wishing Mr. Brown many happy returns of the day.

HORSES RUN AWAY AT FUNERAL

Lives of Five Persons Imperiled by Mad Dash of Cab Team.

A runaway team attached to a cab containing a party of mourners endangered the lives of five persons Monday afternoon during the funeral of the late Mary Anne Quinn at Ohio.

As the funeral cortege was proceeding from the residence to the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Ohio, the team attached to the first carriage following the hearse became frightened. The cab was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn, Frank Quinn, Miss Alice Quinn and a driver. The horses bolted in front of the residence of Lemuel Whitaker and turning out of the procession, dashed ahead of the hearse at breakneck speed.

The driver was unable to check their pace but succeeded in keeping them in the center of the road which was a clear, straight level stretch of about a mile.

When the men in the cab realized the situation they climbed onto the seat beside the driver and taking hold of the lines tried in vain to stop the team. The high-spirited animals continued their flight, bowling along the country road like racers, and rocking the carriage from side to side, until at the end of a mile or more they slowed to a walk of their own accord.

When the funeral cortege caught up with them the horses were changed and a more sedate team substituted and the sad journey resumed without further interruption.

Three hours later Mr. J. S. comes home looking bad and all excited. Wife meets him at the door. "Well, did you see the doctor?" "Yes, he says I am in awful bad shape; my stomach is all covered with ulcers, and if I don't take treatment at once I am sure to have a cancer. He said I could cure me in about four months. If I would take treatment this week, I think I had better go down and get the medicines. He said this first medicine is more expensive than that for next month."

"Well, how much is it; I thought everything was free," observed the wife.

"He says he gives his professional advice and the examination free, but he says no one could expect him to give these expensive medicines free. These medicines will cost $18.00."

"O, yes, I see," says Mrs. S. and in a few minutes she slips out to a neighbor's and telephones for Dr. Goodman who comes, and after a careful examination orders a restricted diet, a bottle of medicine and some tablets. In two weeks Mr. J. S. is feeling fine and laughs about the ulcers and cancers.

NEGRO LYNCHED AS SLAYER

IS PROVED INNOCENT

Greenville, Ga., Aug. 28.—Virgie Swanson, the negro lynched here on Monday as the murderer of L. C. Marchman, a wealthy planter, was innocent, as citizens who tried to save the negro from the mob contended.

Swanson's innocence was proven today when Walter Brewster, another negro, was arrested and confessed that he killed Marchman in a dispute about rent. Swanson was not within five miles of the scene of the tragedy. Fearing another lynching the sheriff hurried Brewster to Atlanta for safe keeping.

Mr. J. S. mentioned in these columns last week, does not feel very well. He has some toast for breakfast, but it feels like an iron wedge in his stomach. About 8 o'clock he put on his coat. "Where are you going?" says his wife. "O, I am just going down the street." "I think I know where you are going," says she. "I saw you cut that advertisement out of the paper." "Well, I was just going to talk to him. You know he don't charge anything this first trip." "O, you'll find out he will charge high enough; you had better go to Dr. Goodman, who maintains a regular office here, and he has a reputation at stake. He always helps us when we are sick," says wife. "I don't want to go to him," replies his band, "you remember how he laughed at me when I had such a lame back after the Osteopath treated me for headache?" "Well, if you are bound to go, just leave your pocket-book where I put it, in the bureau drawer. I put it there when I made the bed." "Well, I don't care," says he. "It's all free this time."

WELL DESERVED THE PRAISE THAT COMES FROM THANKFUL DIXON PEOPLE.

One kidney remedy has known merit.

Dixon people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Dixon testimony proves it reliable. E. B. Fisher, barber, 116 Hennepin Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "I had rheumatic pains through my back and limbs and when I stood in one position for any length of time, it was hard for me to move. My kidneys acted irregularly and contained sediment. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply at Leake Bros. Co's Drug Store. They did me so much good that I continued taking them. They made me strong and well. I still use this remedy once in awhile and it keeps my kidneys in good working order. I am glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as highly now as I did before."

GETS BRIDES MIXED

Bridegroom on Honeymoon Trip Gets Into Wrong Sleeping Car Section.

By H. M. EGBERT.

Their wedding had been a very quiet one, just as their courtship had been quiet. Cynthia Mears and John Roberts had been engaged for more than two years before he could afford to marry, and something of the sedateness of married life had already settled down on them. Then a sudden promotion, with a considerable increase in salary, had changed all John's prospects. The future looked rosy.

John was thirty and Cynthia twenty-six. There had been no wild romance associated with their engagement. They loved each other fondly, but they were under no illusions.

"We must have no fuss, no wedding party, and, above all, no foolish pranks or rice throwing," John said on that evening when he brought Cynthia the wonderful news that they could now be married. Cynthia had agreed cordially. Her parents were dead and she lived alone in a boarding house. There was no one to give her away. John was assisted by Charlie Murtagh, his best man. The marriage was performed at noon in a little uptown church, and immediately afterward the couple left for the station, en route for Florida, where they were to spend their honeymoon. John having obtained a month's leave of absence for that purpose before taking up his new duties. Cynthia wore a plain traveling dress at the ceremony and John a business suit. Charlie accompanied them in the carriage to see them off, and there was no rice throwing on the part of anyone.

"Do you know, dearest, Charlie seems more frustrated than you do," said Cynthia, smiling, as the carriage rolled away. Charlie certainly looked perturbed, and John who was in the secret, smiled at Cynthia and whispered that he would explain the cause when they were aboard the train. The truth was that Charlie was secretly engaged, and the part that he had played that morning, instead of being, as it was, a rehearsal, had shattered his nerves when it brought him the realization of the ordeal which he was shortly to undergo. He was fidgeting nervously with his watch.

"Well, we'll make the 1:14 with ten minutes to spare," he said.

"The 1:14," exclaimed Cynthia in horror. "Why, it is the 1:04, Charlie!"

Charlie had misread the time-table. And the next through train would not leave until night. John bawled to the driver to whip up his horses, and the vehicle dashed into the station with two minutes to spare.

Charlie was fumbling nervously in his pockets, and his face was the color of chalk.

"I can't find the tickets," he stammered.

"Then I'll get some more, you chump," yelled John, and made a dash for the ticket office. Happily there were no purchasers there, and it was only the matter of a moment to procure two more tickets and a drawing-room section. At the door of the waiting room he encountered Charlie, wandering aimlessly about and looking for him. Outside he saw Cynthia's brown hat and veil. John brushed Charlie aside and ran toward Cynthia, who was just getting aboard the train. He swept past the porter and followed her into the drawing-room section, turned round, and slammed the door.

"Well, thank God we pulled that off, dearest!" he exclaimed, and a scream awakened him to reality. The woman in the section was not Cynthia at all. The train was moving, too, and just as John looked at the strange girl in amazement and consternation the carriage rolled past Charlie upon the platform, waving two tickets in his hand and shouting furiously.

No, this girl did not in the least resemble Cynthia, except for the brown hat and veil and a certain similarity of gait and figure. Cynthia was a blonde and this girl was a decisive brunette. Cynthia's hair was gold and this girl's was black. Cynthia was slim and "willowy," and this girl was decidedly—well, plump.

"What are you doing here?" she cried in terror, which John's flushed face and dishevelled appearance certainly warranted. "Help! Help!"

The door was burst open and a man came in. He was at least three inches taller than John, and athletically inclined, if one might judge from the bulging muscles about his chest and arms. He strode between John and the girl.

"Who is this fellow? Has he been molesting you, dear?" he demanded.

"He called me 'dearest,'" said the girl, beginning to look fearful.

The man turned to John.

"Unless you can explain your presence here satisfactorily within one minute," he said, "I shall first give you the thrashing of your life and then hand you over to the conductor."

"I'm perfectly willing to explain my presence here, sir," answered John hotly, "but first I must find my wife. She is aboard this train. God help us if she isn't." A happy thought struck him. "Help me to find her," he said, "and then we'll have the explanations."

"I'm willing to give you every opportunity," answered the other. "Suppose you let me see the number of that ticket in your hand." He took it from John. "E. 7," he said. "This is E. 5. According to that ticket your wife ought to be in the next compartment."

He flung the door open and called the conductor. "Is there a lady in E. 7?" he asked.

"No, Sah," answered the man, grinning. "E. 7 is vacant, sah."

"But let me explain," cried John, thoroughly mortified. "I only bought that ticket five minutes ago. Of course E. 7 is empty. They wouldn't have sold the section to me if it hadn't been. I was almost late for the train and left my wife on the platform while I bought that ticket. My former number was—G something."

The other watched John make his labored explanation with a cynical smile.

"I certainly want you to have every opportunity to explain why I found you in my wife's section," he said. "Conductor, is there a G section on this train?"

"Yes, sah, right behind," answered the dandy.

"Then suppose we go there," said the athletic man, linking his arm in John's. "G—what did you say?"

"It was G 11 or 12," said John. "I'm not sure which. But if my wife isn't there you'll find one of those sections empty. But she must be there," he added eagerly. "Come on, in heaven's name."

They passed through the section and the next one was G. The door of 12 stood open and an enormously stout lady was standing there, fanning her burning face briskly.

"No, no, this is not she," cried John, seeing the expression of sarcastic interrogation upon the other's face, and turned across the aisle to 11. The door was locked.

"Conductor!" shouted John. "Who is in this section?"

The man came hurrying along. "I guess it's empty, sir," he said, producing a key, and opened the door. Section 11 was guileless of any occupant. The stranger turned to John.

"Will you take your thrashing here or back in Section E?" he asked, buttoning his coat across the chest.

"For God's sake let me find my wife and I'll take it wherever you like and give you as good as I get," John answered. Then suddenly his eyes lit upon two figures that had entered the car. "There she is!" he shouted exultantly.

Two women in brown hats and veils were coming down the aisle. One was John's wife, the other the strange woman, and both were radiant with smiles.

"John, dearest!" exclaimed Cynthia, falling upon his neck. "Just think! That horrid Madame Ramezes sold Julia precisely the same hat that she sold to me, and she charged forty-five dollars for it because she said that it was an exclusively Parisian design. O, I haven't told you. What do you think! This lady is Julia Devore, an old school-chum whom I haven't seen for goodness knows how long."

"Julia Styles since this afternoon," said the double, blushing charmingly. "Harry and I were married at 12 o'clock at the—"

"Harry!" exclaimed Cynthia, and she took the tall man by the shoulders and swung him round hard so that he faced her. "Harry! Harry Ross!" she exclaimed.

"You, Cynthia!" he muttered, and all the athletic valor seemed suddenly to have gone out of him.

"Where have you been all these years, Harry?" exclaimed Cynthia. "Never mind, you shall tell me afterward. Just think, John," she continued to her husband, "if that silly old Charlie Murtagh didn't put the tickets in my traveling bag, after all!"

"Charlie Murtagh!" exclaimed Julia. "A stout young man with a pink face and a whitish-brown mustache, blue eyes, high forehead, and wears striped ties to match his socks?"

"Why, Julia, do you know him?"

"Know him!" cried Julia. "Why, he is to marry my sister Annie two weeks from Wednesday!"

"I guess," said Harry Ross, "that we'll convert that prize-battle into a couple of cigars while the ladies adjust their relationship. What do you say, Mr.—"

"Roberts," said John. "I think, all things considered, that your solution will afford peace with honor to all concerned."

"My, but I'll have something to say to Charlie when we get back from Tampa!" meditated Cynthia. (Copyright, 1913, by W. G. Chapman.)

Gas Inventor's Hat

Do we owe the invention of gas lighting to a hat? It is just possible; for when the young Scotsman who obliged the English by making his name easier to pronounce went seeking a situation he took with him a hat of an extraordinary kind. While interviewing Mr. Boulton of the great Soho foundry firm, Murdoch's nervousness caused the hat to fall on the floor. The peculiar sound it made roused the interest of Mr. Boulton, who extracted from the future gas inventor the news that the hat was a homemade, wooden one, turned on a lathe. The man who could make so strange a hat must clearly be a genius, so Boulton engaged the wooden hatmaker.—London Chronicle.

First Essential

John Purroy Mitchell, the very young and very talented collector of the port whom President Wilson has appointed for New York, was congratulated at a recent dinner on his remarkably early and complete success. "What, Mr. Mitchell," a broker asked, "is your secret?" "Well," Mr. Mitchell replied, "while I don't claim to be a success authority, I've often noticed that the man who makes his mark in the world is usually pretty careful in the first place about picking out his target."

Old Cathedral Made Safe

Winchester cathedral, England, built in 1079, in recent years showed many breaks and cracks in its walls, and the foundations of the historic edifice have now been thoroughly rebuilt and the walls restored. The beach logs which had formed a kind of raft foundation for part of the structure were, it is said, found to be in an excellent state of preservation when the new foundations of concrete were put in.

Good Roads

The making of good roads is one of the most important duties of the American people and their prompt repair and careful maintenance is essential. There is probably no subject in which the progressive farmer is more deeply interested than that of having roads connecting him with his markets over which he may be able to haul the greatest possible load. Good roads, like all other good things, are too expensive to build and of too much value to be neglected.

ROAD BUILDING

ROADS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Department of Agriculture Collects Data Showing Land Values Increase With Improvements.

The direct effect that changing bad roads into good roads has upon land value and the general economic welfare of a community is shown in several concrete illustrations gathered by the United States department of agriculture. The department has just issued a statement on the subject, based upon a mass of information gathered by the office of public roads, which is making a special study of the economic effect of road improvement in the country. According to data gathered, where good roads replace bad ones, the values of farm lands bordering on the roads increase to such an extent that the cost of road improvement is equalized, if not exceeded. The general land values, as well as farm values, show marked advances, following the improvement of roads.

Among the illustrations cited by the department are the following:

In Lee county, Virginia, a farmer owned 100 acres between Ben Hur and Jonesville, which he offered to sell for $1,800. In 1908 this road was improved, and although the farmer fought the improvement, he has since refused $3,000 for his farm. Along this same road a tract of 185 acres was supposed to have been sold for $6,000. The purchaser refused the contract, however, and the owner threatened to sue him. After the road improvement, and without any improvement upon the land, the same farm was sold to the original purchaser for $9,000.

In Jackson county, Alabama, the people voted a bond issue of $250,000 for road improvement and improved 24 per cent. of the roads. The census of 1900 gives the value of all farm lands in Jackson county at $5.90 per acre. The selling value at that time was from $6 to $15 per acre. The census of 1910 places the value of all farm lands in Jackson county at $9.79 per acre, and the selling price is now $15 to $25 per acre. Actual figures of increased value following road improvement are shown.

As the roads in no way affect soil fertility or quality of the farm, advances are due essentially to the decrease in the cost of hauling produce to market or shipping points. Farms are now regarded as plants for the business of farming, and any reduction in their profits through unnecessarily heavy costs for hauling on bad roads naturally reduces their capitalization into values. With reduced costs for hauling profits are increased, with the result that the farm plant shows satisfactory earnings on a higher capital value.

The automobile, also, has begun to be an important factor in increasing rural values where good roads are introduced.

Immigration is particularly marked where road conditions are favorable; in fact, the figures of the department seem to indicate that good roads indirectly increase the demand for rural property; and the price of farm land, like that of any commodity, is ruled by the relation between demand and supply.

Auto and Good Roads

The auto has come to stay and there is no use fighting against it or trying to penalize the owners for destroying country roads. There is no doubt that an auto will wear out a dirt road quicker than a team carrying 3,000 pounds, and while the latter are penalized in some states, all efforts to give the same medicine to the owners of autos have failed. The only remedy is to build roads that will stand the wear and tear of heavy wagons, autos and anything else and then take the penalty off everything.

Duty of People

The making of good roads is one of the most important duties of the American people and their prompt repair and careful maintenance is essential. There is probably no subject in which the progressive farmer is more deeply interested than that of having roads connecting him with his market over which he may be able to haul the greatest possible load. Good roads, like all other good things, are expensive to build and of too much value to be neglected.

EDITORIAL

WE DO OUR SHARE.

The Sterling newspapers are continually fretting and whimpering about the stingy crowds Dixon sends down to their entertainments.

If they watched the interurbans and trailers roll into Sterling from Dixon, starting early this morning and running all day, and every one of them loaded down with Dixonites, they would appreciate that Dixon can do her share of the proper kind of bait is exhibited.

Whenever Sterling has anything worth going to see, Dixon turns out enmasse.

PULMOTOR FOR DROWNING

It has been stated in Dixon that a pulmotor is no good for persons apparently dead by drowning. This statement is an error, and the Telegraph, which has been advocating the purchase of one of the machines, has catalogues, testimonials and letters from the Draeger Oxygen Apparatus Co., 422 First Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., showing that the pulmotor, of which machine they are the manufacturers, is used often and successfully on persons apparently dead by drowning, and brings them to life.

If the machines are no good for drowning, why has the city of Chicago purchased many of them and had one installed at almost every one of the public bathing beaches, and even on the police boats that patrol the harbor and river?

If the machine will save one life in the next decade it will be well worth buying. The city should appoint a committee to investigate the various makes of machines—there are three on the market—and one should be placed at the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital or the fire station, where it would be available on short notice and could be rushed to any part of the city.

Dramatic Notes

PRINCESS THEATRE

The theatre goes will see something new at the Princess Theatre Friday night in the 3 reel feature entitled, "The Crimson Stain," a realistic war drama, wonderfully reproducing the incidents on a big plantation during the war, and telling a marvelous story of love, devotion and self sacrifice of a woman driven from home by an enraged father and suffering from poverty with her child and her anguish in seeing her child about to be sold as a slave through the villainy of an overseer of the plantation.

FAMILY THEATRE

Friends of the Family theatre are promised a treat in the attractiveness for the remainder of the week of the bill. Two excellent vaudeville acts have been secured. Jack Polk, eccentric comedian will amuse you and keep you in good spirits with his fun, and Minnie Palmer's Society Sextette, a musical novelty, will also prove a cure for the blues and their charming gowns and sweet music will add to the beauty of the ensemble. The pictures for tonight:
 A Romance of the Ozarks.
 A Street Scene in Yokohama, Japan.

 Lone Dog the Faithful.

THREE STATES IN ONE PLAY.

People coming to Chicago in September and October will find the favorite Illinois theatre, at the corner of Michigan and Jackson boulevards in gala array of new facade and interior decorations offering what the New York critics have called the Bar num & Bailey of musical comedy. In the production of The Lady of the Slipper there will appear not one star but three—Montgomery and Stone and Elsie Janis. Mr. Dillingham has made long and careful preparation for this offering, which ran an entire season at the Globe in New York, and there will be a notable cast and a production combining novelty and good taste.

In combining the three stars and their companies Mr. Dillingham suggests most attractive potentialities of entertainment along lines which he picturesquely suggests under the term of Musical Fantasy.

There are more than 100 people in the company supporting Montgomery and Stone and Miss Janis. The Lady of the Slipper will begin an indefinite season at the Illinois on Monday, Sept. 1. Thereafter performances will be given every evening including Sundays and at Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Mr. Lorenz, unlike City Attorney Jas. Johnston refused to submit and pay a $10 fine. Instead he consulted Mr. Shalberg, who made a close examination of the section and discovered the little word that according to the police will make further arrests under that section useless. It is practically impossible, they say, to prove that a man "willfully" allowed the lights on his machine to go out and that the only time they could make an arrest with prospect of obtaining a conviction would be when they notified a driver that his lights were out and then he refused to light them.

Is a "Joker."

In rare cases it might be shown that he had been told by others that the lights were not burning and had continued with them in that condition. These cases are so rare, however, that the word is in the nature of a "joker" and in the future will have to be disregarded by the police, where the drivers are so fortunate as to hear of the Moline attorney's discovery. It will be glad news to drivers, who pass through Rock Island, as the police there have been extremely active in arresting drivers whose machines were seen running without lights, either front or rear. When Mr. Lorenz was arraigned before Magistrate Gustafson this afternoon, Attorney Shalberg presented his argument but the magistrate refused to render a decision until the states attorney was present. The case was continued until tomorrow. In the meantime the city attorney, who like many others was recently mulct under this charge, is searching the statute books in an attempt to discover some means whereby he can take action and recover his $10.

ADULTERATION.

Oregon Republican: A farmer was arrested and fined for selling some milk, adulterated with a little harmless water. He wore at the same time a suit of wool (?) clothes badly adulterated with shoddy and boots whose soles were adulterated with paper or wood shavings. For breakfast he drank adulterated coffee, his meat was spiced with adulterated pepper, cakes puffed up with adulterated baking powder, his pickles soured with adulterated vinegar, his pie was seasoned with adulterated spice, his wife was out of sorts because she could not make bread out of adulterated flour that was run in on her for the "best." In fact he saw and felt the effects of adulteration which ever way he looked and had never heard of the adulterators being arrested and fined. Yet there are those who blame the farmer complaining of being discontented.

GIRL HAS RABIES.

Harrisburg: The 3-year-old daughter of Noah Maddox, a prosperous farmer, was taken to Chicago after developing symptoms of rabies. Her father died after being kept shackled and muzzled for more than ten hours. Maddox and his daughter were bitten by a dog eight weeks ago. It was believed that Maddox had recovered. He went violently mad, frothing at the mouth and snapped at everyone who came near him. The child's symptoms were less pronounced than her father's.

WARD MILLER IN LAMELIGHT

Ward Miller was the hero of yesterday's game between the Cubs and Brooklyn, for the Dixon outfielder, substituting for Schulte, cracked out a triple in the seventh inning off Ed Ruelbach, a former Cub pitcher, that scored two of his teammates, and he later scored himself. The score: Chicago, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Misses Elizabeth Phillips, Margaret Lawson and Virginia Miller motored to Sterling last evening.

WILSON WARNS
ALL TO FLEE

President Asks That All U. S. Citizens Now in Mexico to Leave Country.

ULTIMATUM TO ALL OFFICIALS

President Tells Officials of Both Federals and Rebels That United States Expects Them to Guard Americans.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 28.—One troop of the Third cavalry and a battery of the Third field artillery were rushed from Fort Sam Houston to the border upon orders from the war department at Washington. Two special trains were made up on two hours' notice. The artillerymen were sent to Laredo, Tex., and the cavalrymen to Brownsville. Attention was called to the fact that opposite Laredo there is a Mexican federal garrison and across the border from Brownsville the constitutionalists hold forth. In addition about 1,000 men are in readiness to leave Fort Sam Houston. Railroads have promised to have equipment on hand to accommodate 500 men and horses in 36 hours.

Mexico City, Aug. 28.—President Wilson's second note, made public last night, insists upon an immediate answer only to the demand that General Huerta be eliminated from the electoral contest. All other points, says President Wilson, may be taken up later, suggesting, however, that they be taken up without great delay.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 28.—Mexico of its own accord will accept the good offices of President Wilson in settling its internal troubles, according to a message received by John Lind from the government of Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Lind will return to the Mexican capital Friday. Mr. Lind's first work there will be to get leaders of all factions together to name candidates for president and vice-president. Equal suffrage and a fair count will be the slogan.

Washington, Aug. 28.—All Americans were warned to leave Mexico at once by President Wilson last night. At the same time the American embassy and all consular representatives throughout the southern republic were instructed "to notify all officials, civil and military, in Mexico," that they would be held responsible for harm or injury done to Americans or their property.

Secretary Bryan dispatched long telegrams to the embassy and all consular representatives quoting extracts from the president's address to congress, in which he reviewed the futile peace negotiations with the Huerta government and the policy the United States would pursue hereafter toward Mexico.

In these messages the consuls were instructed to render every aid possible to departing Americans, furnishing transportation and any other pecuniary assistance to the needy. They were informed that a sufficient number of ships would be provided to carry away those in the seacoast towns.

STERLING HAS GOOD IDEA.

Near the south end of the First avenue bridge spanning Rock river is Sterling hangs a sign which reads from the south side, "The state auto law will be enforced." On the other side, so those leaving the city may read, is painted the sentence—"Thank you—Come again."

LOSES PAY ENVELOPE

CONTAINING MONEY
 Miss Nellie Davis, an employee of the milk factory, last evening lost a pay envelope containing about $5, which was the property of Miss Mary Barton, whom she was taking it to. The party who found same will do a great kindness by returning same to either of the above young ladies, or leaving it at this office.

AUTO CAME TO GRIEF

A Ford automobile came to grief yesterday on the river road to Sterling on the north side of the river near the Wm. Schuler farm, when the two front wheels were wrenched off at a sharp turn. Jas. Deetz of Emerson owns the machine.

EXALL GETS THIRD.

J. W. Hoyle's Exall finished third again this week, getting that place in the 2:21 trot at Champaign yesterday. The race was won by Will Go in straight heats, Exall finishing fourth fifth and second respectively in the three heats.

PLANT IS BURNED.

Elgin: The American Farm Products plant at Fox River switch, purchased by the Elgin Butterine company, but not legally transferred, burned to the ground in a spectacular fire yesterday.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have been caused by sparks from a locomotive. The property loss will total $50,000, it is figured.

TEN COMMANDMENTS

FOR GOOD CITIZENS

An exchange gives the following as ten commandments for good citizenship:

1. Thou shalt honor thy city and keep its laws.
2. Remember thy cleaning day and keep it wholly.
3. Thou shalt love and cherish thy children and provide for them decent homes and playgrounds.
4. Thou shalt not keep thy windows closed day or night.
5. Thou shalt keep in order thy back yard, thy hall and stairway.
6. Thou shalt not kill thy neighbor's bodies with poisonous air, nor thy souls with bad companions.
7. Thou shalt not let the wicked fly live.
8. Thou shalt not steal thy child's right to happiness from them.
9. Thou shalt bear witness against thy neighbor's rubbish heap.
10. Thou shalt covet all the air and sunshine thou canst obtain.

The greatest menace to health in a city is the influential citizen who insists on his right to live like a dog and be a menace and nuisance to his neighbors.

A NEW ONE.

From time immemorial it has been claimed that old toppers have been able to find snakes in whisky bottles. Claiming that a bottle of beer from a Cedar Rapids brewery contained the putrefied remains of a dead mouse, it is stated that Philip and Martha Wagner of that city have brought suit against the brewing company for $5,000. It would seem that beer also makes you see things.

MISS WILSON IS HURT

PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER JESSIE THROWN FROM HORSE.

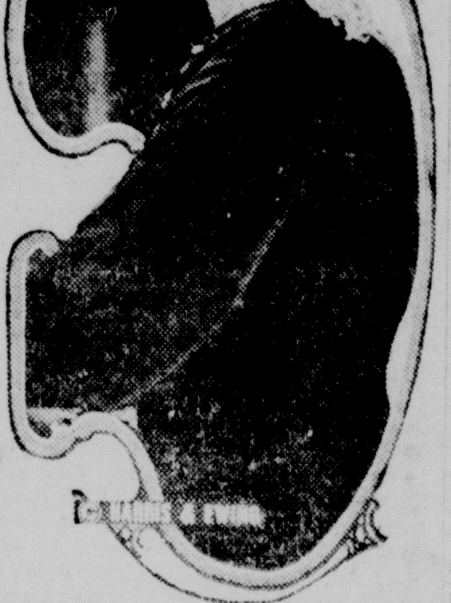

Found Unconscious by Doctor, Her Fiance, Riding Ahead, Being Ignorant of Accident.

White River Junction, Vt., Aug. 28.—As Dr. Charles W. Worthen of White River Junction was on his way to visit a patient at Plainfield, N. H., he came upon a young woman lying unconscious by the road. It proved to be Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, who, while out riding with her fiance, Francis B. Sayre, had been thrown from her horse.

Mr. Sayre had been riding a little ahead, and knew nothing of the accident until the riderless horse dashed past him. Doctor Worthen applied remedies and after about half an hour Miss Wilson regained consciousness.

Later she was taken to the home of Fred Smith, near by, and word was telephoned to the Cornish residence of President Wilson. The scene of the accident was on the New Hampshire side of the Connecticut river, just opposite the Vermont town of North Hartland.

At Harlakenden, the Wilson summer home, it was said that Miss Wilson had received no serious injury, though she was still suffering somewhat from contusions.

THE CORAL GROVE

Deep in the wave is a coral grove,
Where the purple mullet and gold-fish rove,
Where the sea-flower spreads its leaves of blue,
That never are wet with falling dew,
But in bright and changeable beauty shine,
Far down in the green and glassy brine.

The floor is of sand, like the mountain-drift,
And the pearl shells spangle the flinty snow;
From coral rocks the sea-plants lift
Their boughs where the tides and billows flow;
The water is calm and still below,
For the winds and waves are absent there,
And the sands are bright as the stars that glow
In the motionless field of the upper air;
There, with its waving blade of green,
The sea-flag streams through the silent water,
And the crimson leaf of the dulse is seen
To blush like a banner bathed in slaughter.

There, with a light and easy motion,
The fan coral sweeps through the clear, deep sea,
And the yellow and scarlet tufts of ocean
Are bending like corn on the upland lea;

And life, in rare and beautiful forms
Is sporting amid those bowers of stone,
And is safe, when the wrathful spirit of storms
Has made the top of the waves his own;

When the myriad voices of the ocean roar,
When the windgod frowns in the murky skies,
And demons are waiting the wreck on shore;

Then, far below, in the peaceful sea,
The purple mullet and the gold-fish rove,
Where the waters murmur tranquilly,
Through the bending twigs of the coral grove.

CANDIED GRAPE FRUIT PEEL

Skins. Usually Thrown Away, May Be Utilized for Consumption in the Winter.

You can make use of the grape fruit skins in the following manner if the fruit is fresh and perfect. Remove it in four sections or quarters and cut it into strips about an inch wide. Weigh the peel; then weigh an equal quantity of sugar. Cover the peel with fresh cold water and let stand over night. In the morning simmer slowly in this same water until it is very tender, easily pierced with a broom straw. Best to use a wide, rather shallow, pan or preserve kettle, so as not to crowd the peel, and allow it to cook uniformly and without breaking. When tender take from the fire and let stand until morning. Drain off the liquid, add more water if not sufficient to cover well. The weight of water should be half that of sugar. Cook the sugar and water to a syrup but not too thick; add the peel and simmer slowly until it is nearly absorbed and peel comparatively clear. Let it get nearly cold, then pick out the peel, roll in granulated sugar and place on waxed paper to dry. Keep in wide-mouthed glass jars. If peel gets too hard you can freshen it by cooking whatever quantity you desire for use in a little syrup until it softens, and again roll in sugar, or use at once. The syrup can also be used to sweeten and flavor.

TRY THIS APPLE MINT JELLY

No More Delicious Combination, for Those Who Like Flavor, Can Be Served With Mutton.

Apple juice forms the basis of a great number of our preserves and jellies, and here is an idea that will be new and pleasing to those who dearly love their mutton served with mint and apple jelly, as it should be. Cut apples out without paring; simply cutting out bruises and imperfect spots. Barely cover with cold water, put a cover over the kettle and let them simmer until soft throughout; then turn into cheese cloth and drain. Measure

Facts in Nature

FOR centuries it has been known that Nature's most valuable health giving agents for the cure of disease are found in our American forests. Over forty years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., used the powdered extracts as well as the liquid extracts of native medicinal plants, such as Bloodroot and Queen's root, Golden Seal and Stone root, Cherry bark and Mandrake, for the cure of blood diseases. This prescription as put up in liquid form was called and has enjoyed a large sale for all these years in every drug store in the land. You can now obtain the powdered extract in sugar-coated tablet form of your medicine dealer, or send for one-cent postage stamps for trial box to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and tablets will be mailed, postage prepaid.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, red blood, invigorates the stomach, liver and bowels and through them the whole system. Skin affections, blotches, boils, pimples and eruptions—result of bad blood—are eradicated by this alternative extract—as thousands have testified.

a quart of this juice and three cups of sugar. Set the sugar in the stove oven, spread on a shallow dish. Place the juice on to boil with the fresh, tender leaves from a bunch of mint. Cook 20 minutes at a boil; strain out the leaves; add the hot sugar and boil until the syrup will jelly when tested on a cold saucer. If you wish the pretty green color of the mint jelly, served you at the tearoom table, use a little, as it must be a dainty tint. Pour into glasses same as other jelly. A pretty fancy is to use tiny tumblers or glasses such as the imported bar-le-duc comes in. One of these can be served to each guest or member of the family.

English Patties.

Cut cold cooked chicken in one-fourth inch cubes; there should be one cupful. Add six mushroom caps, peeled and cut in cubes, one-half truffe, cut in small pieces, and two table-spoonfuls of butter. Cook five minutes, stirring constantly, and add two table-spoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one cupful of chicken broth. Bring to the boiling point and let simmer ten minutes. Season with one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of cayenne, and one-eighth teaspoonful of grated nutmeg. Beat one egg slightly, dilute with one table-spoonful of cream and add to hot mixture. Stir until blended, and fill party cases.—Woman's Home Companion.

Roasted Tomatoes.
Peel the tomatoes as directed, cut a piece off the top and remove a little of the pulp. Put a piece of butter or a few drops of oil in each one, dust with salt and pepper, replace the top, sprinkle with fine crumbs moistened with butter, salt and pepper. Place each one on a slice of bread, buttered; and put a little piece of butter or tiny square of fat bacon on top of each. Bake for about fifteen minutes, or until they are tender.

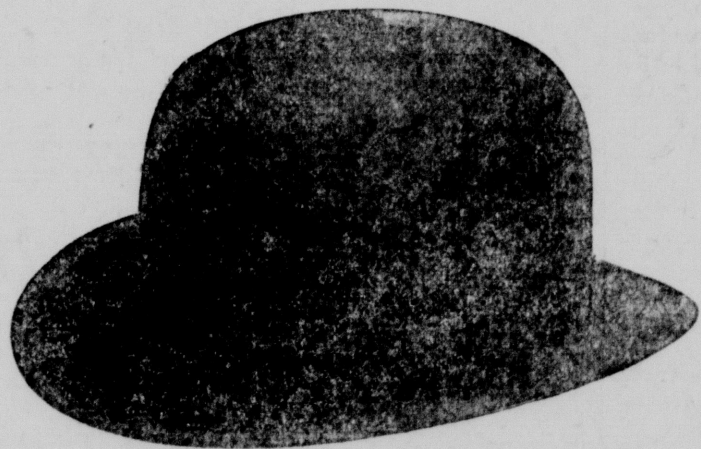

Fruit Puff Pudding.
Mix well one pint of flour, one and one-half teaspoons of yeast powder and a little salt. Make into a soft batter with milk. Put into well greased cups one spoonful batter, then one cup of strawberries, or any fruit preferred, then another of batter. Steam 20 minutes. Serve with liquid sauce.

Corn a La Southern.
Chop one can corn and add two eggs slightly beaten, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one and one-half table-spoonfuls melted butter and two cups scalded milk. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven until firm.

How to Wash Sateen.
When washing sateen a little borax put into the last rinsing water is very good to make the sateen glossy when ironed.

VAILE AND MALLEY

GOOD ROADS ARE PROFITABLE

Loss to Farmers in This Country Traceable to Bad Thoroughfares Is Inconceivable.

The subject of good roads is like the poor, it is always with us. Every season the topic recurs with painful insistence. Even in this enlightened age when inventive genius is doing everything that can be done to improve the conditions of the country, there are places where the roads are so seriously neglected that one can scarcely pass over them with a medium load.

The loss to the farmers in this country that can be traced directly to bad roads, is almost inconceivable, says Kimball's Dairyman. It is not the purpose to try to compute this account here. The expense of hauling, the waste of time in going for repairs or in doing other necessary errands are all increased by poor roads. These are conditions of economical importance but there is another side to the good road question that is of equal importance and that is the social effect.

The farm that is located on a well kept, well improved highway is always nearer town than the one whose road connecting it with the market is rough or poorly kept. The time will come when people will say they are 20 minutes from town rather than two miles from town. With the changes that are being made in methods of transportation changes will also be made in roads. There is sure to be an influence on the social life of a community that can be directly traced to these methods of highway improvement.

The home that is located on a well improved highway is always more attractive; it is worth more when put upon the real estate market and it is a more pleasant place to live because the social intercourse between the neighbors and the town which must always be a social center, is more free. There is less isolation and this is what makes life in the country really worth while. The farm home that is well improved, that is equipped as such homes may be now days, that is located on a highway which puts the town and town friends all most next door to you, leaves little to be desired.

There is still another point in connection with the good road, and that is the attractiveness of a well kept hard road bed. Who has not seen from the car window a long smooth road reaching out into the country bounded on all sides by green pastures or well kept fields passing over gentle hills and through shaded valleys leading ever onward? Such a road exerts an influence that is unmistakable, calling the automobile enthusiast and the one who loves to be out of doors beckoning him to come out and speed over the hard, smooth, floorlike highway. On such a road every turn offers new enchantment. Every change of scene offers new blendings and adjustments of color effect. Surely the well kept road is a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Prevent Road Trouble.

Careful use of a drag on a dirt road that is already in reasonably good condition, will almost entirely prevent trouble from ruts, mud holes or dust, and give good service at low cost.

Implement Does Much Good.

The road drag is a simple instrument, but when used at the proper time it does so much good that its results are unbelievable by those who are not acquainted with it.

Material Is Immaterial.

It does not matter if the road drag be made of a split log, a large bridge plank, or an old iron rail—either of these will do the good work.

Settling an Argument.

The "queer ideas" for which children are famous nearly always are based upon some half-heard, half-understood adult saying or conception. Willie, for example, comes from Boston and does not always find it easy to discover common meeting ground with the Chicago lads of his own age. Not long since Willie had a visitor and his mother, in the course of the afternoon, was horrified to hear sounds of battle coming from the room where the boys were at play. "What on earth is the matter, children?" she cried, rushing in upon them. "We're fightin'," said the Chicago youngster. "We're having an argument," was the Boston boy's gentler version. "But what about?" asked the host's mother. "Aw, 'bout tempests," her disheveled son informed her. "I say it was God made 'em, an' Tommy here, says it was Shakespeare. So we fit."

Animals Don't Need Eyes.

Animals do not depend upon their eyesight in the same way as human beings. Cats and dogs could get along very well without eyes. A cat can find her way with the aid of her whiskers. These are the same width as her body and connected with nerves which cause her to feel the slightest touch. Dogs can be entirely guided by their sense of smell. Blind dogs have been known to scent and find their way to the most inaccessible places. Their hearing is also preternaturally sharp. Rats can see very little, and depend chiefly upon their noses, muscles, touch and hearing. In the case of most animals the senses of smell and touch are more highly developed than that of sight, and they do not require to depend upon their sight nearly as much as do human beings in regard to safety.

Fined $1 a Minute.

One dollar a minute was the fine imposed by Judge Duncan in the circuit court on Frank M. McDermitt, a local lawyer, for delaying for ten minutes the opening of the case of Nicholas Gindo, of Carteret, against the Central Railroad of New Jersey. McDermitt, counsel for the plaintiff, was not present when the court was called to order at 10 o'clock in the morning. When the lawyer walked into the court room at 10:10, the judge asked him why he was late. McDermitt replied he had been detained in a barber shop. "I figure the expense of the court while waiting for you at $1 a minute," said the judge, "and you are hereby fined $10." The money was produced immediately and the trial was begun.—Newark (N. J.) Dispatch to the New York Press.

True Praise.

"The horror, in this money-grabbing age, that is expressed at the bare thought that Doctor Friedmann desires to patent and monopolize his consumption remedy—this horror speaks well for the doctors." The speaker was Bishop Lambuth of Nashville. He continued: "Doctors are a fine set of men. Out of babes' mouths issues their praise. I once said to the little son of a Nashville doctor: 'Is your father at home?' 'No,' said the little fellow; 'No, sir, he's out.' 'Where can I find him, do you know?' 'Well,' said the little fellow, 'I guess you'd better look for some place where folks are sick or hurt. I don't know just where he is, but he's helping somewhere.'"

Garden Weeder.

Have a weeder made for use when weeding or digging around the small flowers. It will be found far more convenient than a trowel or hoe. Any blacksmith could make it for you, or a handy boy could make one from the following directions: Take a piece of iron hoop or any iron strip about one-sixteenth of an inch thick, one inch wide and twenty inches long. Bend it to form a triangle, then leave about four inches where the ends join, to be straightened together and thrust into a short wooden handle. This chops weeds down in a hurry, and is convenient for hoeing around small flowers.

Lightning Sketch.

"President Wilson ought to have been a novelist," said a Princeton professor. "He has the most marvelous faculty for tabloid characterization." "Tabloid characterization?" the puzzled reporter faltered. "Yes. By that I mean the faculty of portraying a man's character in a few words. Let me give you an example. 'President Wilson once mentioned a certain individual in my hearing, and I said: 'What sort of a chap is he?' 'Well,' President Wilson answered, 'you can't get an idea into his head, and you can't get one out of it.'"

Of Course He Yielded.

John Drew, of course, rarely rides in the subway; but one afternoon circumstances compelled him to go up-town by the underground route, and his car was overcrowded.

Always gallant, Mr. Drew rose and surrendered his seat to a pretty girl. She thanked him very prettily, and that evening at the theater he found this note awaiting him: "Dear Mr. Drew—You gave me your seat in the car today. Will you give me two seats in your theater tonight?"

Post Impression.

George Luks, whose paintings of children and old people made a recent sensation in a Fifth Avenue gallery, was talking about the post-impressionists. "But, Luks," said a magazine editor, "what is a post-impressionist?" "With his jolly laugh, Mr. Luks replied: 'A post-impressionist, my dear fellow, is an artist who aims to give you the post-impression that he has orders for more pictures than he can paint.'"

FROM THE PINEAPPLE

SUCCULENT FRUIT THE BASIS OF MANY DELICIOUS DISHES.

May Be Utilized in Preparations for Immediate Use or for Preserves That Will Be Welcome in the Winter.

The pineapple should be joyfully welcomed, for it is cheap, has good keeping qualities and a clean, delicious flavor. Here are some good pineapple dishes, as given by the Delineator:

Pineapple Omelet—Beat three eggs thoroughly with a tablespoonful of sugar, adding at the last a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful each of lemon and pineapple juice. Have the omelet pan hot and well greased, sides and bottom, with a teaspoonful of melted butter or oil. Turn in the beaten eggs, and as they cook, break the omelet once in a while with a silver fork. When still moist, sprinkle on top half of the oatmeal, a cupful of chopped or grated pineapple, canned or fresh, fold over the other half, sprinkle with sugar and serve immediately.

Pineapple Sirup—Slice, peel and dice enough pineapple to make about three pounds. Place in preserving kettle with a pound of sugar and a quart of water and cook until very soft. Mash and strain. Return to the kettle, and to each pint of juice allow a pound of sugar. Cook to a rich sirup and bottle while hot. Use patent stoppers or sealing wax to make airtight. This will be ready for use at any time for sauces or cooling drinks.

Pineapple Sauce for Ice Cream—Put a cupful of fresh pineapple juice in a saucepan with a cupful of granulated sugar and cook ten minutes. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, and whip with an egg-beater over boiling water until foamy. Take from the fire, add the whipped whites of eggs and serve hot with ice cream. If the pineapple sirup is used, omit the sugar.

Preserved Pineapple—Uncooked—If one has a good cold cellar or storeroom the fresh pineapple may be grated and preserved uncooked. Allow a pound of sugar to each pound of grated fruit and let stand in the refrigerator for twelve hours. Then pack into sterilized jars, screw tight, and as an additional precaution cover the top with sterilized cotton batting and tie down firmly. Keep in a cold, dark place.

Pineapple Jelly—Pineapple jelly is worth while preparing for winter use. To make it, pare ripe pineapples and grate them and to each cupful of grated pulp measure out a cupful of sugar. Add half the sugar to the fruit and let it stand in a covered earthen dish for three hours. Then boil it, very slowly, in a granite or porcelain saucepan until the pulp is soft. Do not use tin, as the pineapple juice sometimes injures the surface of this metal. Let the pulp drip through a jelly bag over night. The next day heat the rest of the sugar on shallow platters in the oven, and in the meantime boil for 15 minutes the juice which has dripped through the jelly bag. Then add the hot sugar, let it melt in the liquid, but do not let it boil any longer, and pour it into glasses.

Before Mayonnaise.

In the days before the art of mayonnaise dressing was known to every good cook the English had a very fair substitute for it which they used with their salads. It was called "an artful mixture," and doubtless as much ingenuity was used in its mixing as the modern cook uses in making mayonnaise. It consisted of mustard, oil and vinegar, "artfully" mixed to a smooth dressing. At her discretion the cook might add the hard-boiled yolks of new-laid eggs, if before adding them she carefully rubbed them to a powder. The recipe, though somewhat vague, suggests a dressing with claims of attention to the lover of good salads.

Hard Sauce.

A good hard sauce for any pudding is made with half a cupful of butter, beaten to a cream and thickened with a cupful of powdered sugar. Whip an egg white, light and stiff, season it with a grain or two of salt, and a good deal of nutmeg and fold it lightly into the butter and sugar.

Remedy for Lumpy Salt.

There is nothing better than rice for keeping salt from packing in the shakers and refusing to come out. Heat a teaspoonful of the rice and put it into the shaker. It will absorb the moisture, and the salt will come out dry as the sands of the desert, and the rice will keep it moving when shaken.

To Whiten Clothes.

White clothes that have become yellow may be whitened in the following simple manner: After washing them in the usual way, lay them to soak over night in clear water into which a teaspoonful of cream of tartar to a quart of water has been put. When ironed they are as white as snow.

Potato Soup.

Heat one pint or more of milk. Put through vegetable squeezer any potato left from dinner. Stir into milk until of proper thickness. Bring to a boil and season with pepper, salt and onion juice. Nice for supper on a cool evening.

Dressing for Cold Slaw.

Two tablespoons whipped cream, two tablespoons vinegar and one tablespoon of sugar. Delicious on lettuce as well as cold slaw.

Be a Live Wire.

The man who arrives, has will, has a vision and looks into the future to make life worth while. In business he is not satisfied to do the work that is before him; he will do the work of the other man; he can do two men's work as well as one, writes John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in Leslie's. He is the kind of man you can not down. The same may be said of the human live wire as of the material live wire. He is a man whose life has been planned, who makes each day in his life count. Like the other live wire, the human live wire must be connected at both ends—at one with a source of power, and at that is the power of God. A dead weight or a live wire? It is not what we have been, but what we are going to be. The choice is yet to be made. Is it to continue drifting? Shall it be that or shall it be the life of the man who is the live wire? There was never a day when there was such a demand for human live wires.

Paper Cannon.

To the amazingly long list of articles made of paper there may be added paper cannon, which have been manufactured at the Krupp works, in Germany. These paper field pieces are for special use of the infantry. Their caliber is a little less than two inches, and the pieces are so light that a soldier can easily carry one. But the resistance is greater than that of a field piece of steel of the same caliber. It is not to be understood that these paper guns are in any way to replace those made of steel. The paper arms are intended merely for use in situations where the movement of field artillery would be impracticable. Paper artillery on the field of battle seems an extraordinary thing, but it is hardly more so than paper wheels for freight cars on railways appeared when they were first introduced, or, for that matter, than paper water pails were.

Women Won Honors at Cambridge.

Women have distinguished themselves this year at Cambridge, England. In the mediaeval and modern languages tripos first class honors were gained by 14, 8 of whom were women and 6 of whom were men. In Class 135 passed, of whom 24 were women and 11 were men. In Class III, 13 men and 8 women passed. Five of the women who gained first class honors were from Gorton, 2 from Newham. In Part II, of class 3 Newham women gained first class honors. In history, Part I, a Gorton woman, Miss N. G. Smith, shared highest honors with men. And a Gorton woman, Miss T. Day, took a second class in Part II, of the theological tripos. This tripos has been taken by only one other woman besides Miss Day. That was back in 1882.

Hawkward Hapirate.

Perhaps it is for the reason that the influence of American visitors to London has begun to have its effect on the spoken Britannic tongue; at any rate it is remarked in the great city there has been an awakening in favor of the letter h, "the hawkward hapirate," never before known, and that fairly well educated English people are now taking up their h's and applying them where they belong. On the other hand, in the absurd use of the article an before an aspirate one may see in the newspapers a hitching up and unhitching of h's that might even distress Uriah Heep with all his "umbleness," as they still put it "an Hungarian," "an historian" and present Mrs. Pankhurst as "an hunger striker."

Relics of Departed Buffalo.

Clearing some old land near Carlisle, Wyo., E. E. Miller, a rancher, uncovered what appears to have been the retreat of buffalo hunters and Indians, and which should prove a fertile field for the work of fossil hunters. The land is filled in ground, just how long ago no one seems to know. When the filled in earth was removed bones of buffalo and other animals were encountered. Hunters' knives, revolvers, axes and other tools which were found indicated that this was at one time a rendezvous for buffalo hunters. Some of the bones will be put together and sent to the State Historical society at Cheyenne.

Only Three Classes of Cheese.

Not less than 156 distinct kinds of cheese made in Europe and America were described many years ago, but the slight variations of these kinds are almost innumerable. In a new work, Prof. H. H. Wing of Cornell University roughly divides the many kinds into three general classes. These owe their leading characteristics to: (1) the amount of water removed, giving hard and soft cheeses; (2) the addition or subtraction of fat in the form of cream; and (3) the peculiar germs of fermentation, which give rise to the multitude of flavors.

Chance for New Industry.

A Russian specialist in agriculture, on a recent visit to fruit-canning plants in California, expressed surprise that no apricot marmalade was made at the canneries, and said that there is an immense demand for this product in Russia. He also gave it as his opinion that much of the dried fruit that is being shipped into Russia from France as a French product is in reality American fruit, repacked in French cartons.

Doesn't Use the Doormat.

The fly never wipes his feet before he enters your home. He may have been crawling in the filth of the street or the alley a minute before, but he has no hesitancy in crawling over your foot.

Effect of Cold Air.

The Homeopathic Envoy of Lancaster, Pa., deals some steady blows at the cold air faddists who sow broadcast the advice: "Sleep with your windows open; nail them open and avoid pneumonia; shut them and pneumonia germs thrive." The Envoy calls attention to the fact that at night one's vitality wanes to its lowest ebb, and when asleep, oblivious to surroundings, the mischief is done. "A night air," says this authority, "loaded with vapor and night exhalations of the outside world, with free access to the ordinary individual is surely not preferable to the modified air passing through every crack and crevice, and through the walls of the dwelling." It was Artemus Ward who, while believing in ventilation, having been unable to buy glass for his window, put in the sash. "This," said he, "will at least keep out the coarsest of the cold."

Value of Toads.

The common garden toad is coming into his own, and the full measure of his worth to the farmer and gardener is explained in a bulletin recently issued by the Nebraska experiment station. It says: "Superstition and tradition have invested the toad with repulsive and venomous qualities. As a matter of fact, B. F. Swingle, a noted authority, declares the common toad has a cash value of $10 to the man with a garden. Examination of the stomachs of 149 toads proved that 98 per cent. of their food was of the following character: Bugs, beetles, spiders, potato bugs, thousand-legged worms, weevils, tent caterpillars and grasshoppers. These were eaten by thousands. Wire worms, army worms, crickets, cucumber bugs and rose bugs were relished just as well. In one stomach 77 thousand-legged worms were found. One toad in captivity snapped up 86 flies in ten minutes."

Really Delightful.

William H. Maxwell, superintendent of New York's public schools, quoted with no little zest, at a recent dinner, a composition, based on a moving-picture play, that had been written by a boy of ten. The composition was very long and very delightful. The best paragraph ran: "The villain curled his mustash, and seeping the pure virgin shrieks ha ha he mine or death blud is on my head this dagger stabs thee to thy uttermost sole ha ha ha vengeance. But the good hero kurses and says O hevins hevins stur won step and thy ded body lies at my door. lay won parm on the virgins korpse and it was better if you was drowned with a millstone. Avrant avrant from this sweet korpse pre-unz."

Making the World Bloom.

Will S. Monroe, professor of psychology at the Montclair (N. J.) state normal school, who has gone abroad, carried with him a collection of seeds of the wild flowers and plants of the New Jersey hills, which he will scatter on his travels in sections of Europe. Mr. Monroe will make a similar collection of seeds and flora of the European countries, and these seeds he will plant in New Jersey. Mr. Monroe has carried out this program for several years, and has effected the transplantation of the flowers of many countries to that state, and New Jersey flowers and plants which he transferred are flourishing in Bulgaria, Bohemia, Switzerland and Greece. This summer Mr. Monroe will place most of the Jersey seed in Greece.

Prizes for Aerial Safety.

The Union pour la Securite en Aero-plane has just offered prizes of 582,000 francs (about $116,400) for devices that will "bring an important contribution to the safety of heavier-than-air apparatus." It offers one grand prize of 400,000 francs (about $80,000) for apparatus which the jury will pronounce as of exceptional interest from the point of view of safety. This prize is indivisible. The other prizes shall be at the pleasure of the jury, but in no case less than 20,000 francs ($4,000). The jury is composed of fifteen members, ten named by the union, one by the minister of public works, one by the minister of marine and three by the minister of war.

Why This Keen Interest.

Exactly wherein lies the fascination of an automobile speed contest? There are still old-fashioned folk who prefer the horse race, but it looks very much as if the multitude had turned its affection to the motor race. Is it because it is more of a contest between men—the car being a triumph of human ingenuity and the operator making it so part of him that he and the car are one and the race an affair between animate beings, not machines? It must be that, for could interest in the staying power of mere cars hold those tens of thousands in tense interest for hours that they do not know are long?

In Grip of an Octopus.

A naval diver at Toulon was suddenly attacked by a giant octopus while under water in the harbor. He gave the hoisting signal and was hauled to the surface, together with the octopus, whose tentacles, said to be 25 feet long, were wrapped around him. The diver was unconscious. The octopus held fast to the diver until it was stabbed to death. It weighed 135 pounds and the suckers on its tentacles were as big as five-shilling pieces.

Sewers to Light City.

The sewer discharge of the city of Niagara Falls may be utilized as a source of power generation. It is thought that it will be sufficient to light the city.

Dried Potatoes for Cattle.

Germany is evolving an ever-increasing number of potato products, and thus rapidly solving the problem of disposing of the once enormous surplus of this crop. A number of establishments in that country are now turning out quantities of dried potatoes, in various forms, for use in feeding cattle. According to a recent consular report, dried potatoes do not cause the form of sickness that results from a diet of raw potatoes. Moreover, raw potatoes can be preserved for only a limited time, while to boil the potatoes would impose upon the stock-raiser more expense than the circumstances justify. Official tests have proved that the one-third of strengthening food generally given to horses in the form of grain could be replaced by dried potatoes, and such animals would be kept in excellent condition.

Leeds and Canals.

Leeds, which (like Sandwich) has started a movement for a seaport of her own, was one of the first centers to encourage the making of canals, according to the London Chronicle. The great waterway which links her to Liverpool was begun in 1776, and has over 50 locks in a bed that rises over 400 feet and falls over 400. So that Leeds can look two ways toward the sea by canals she has helped to make—toward the Mersey and toward the Humber. What would happen if Leeds were to make herself a ship canal Hull shudders to think. Leeds appears to have been as mighty a figure in the past as she hopes to be in the future, for there is strong reason for believing that in the seventh century she was the capital of an independent nation, with the Forest of Elmet as her chief hunting ground.

First British Mounted Police.

When the departure of the Roman legions from Britain, as Tennyson tells us, left men to do about as they pleased in the absence of any adequate government, the roads were filled with robbers, and everywhere outside of walled towns men generally adopted the robbers' simple plan. "That they should take who have the power and they should keep who can." Therefore King Arthur gathered men of noble instincts about his round table and made them knights to go forth not to conquer territory or markets, or win spoils, but to redress wrongs, to defend the weak, especially woman-kind, in the spirit of the cross. They were "knights without fear and without reproach" who took King Arthur's oath.

Urges Use of Wheat Bran.

A well-known authority of dietetics has recently taken to urging his patients to indulge in quantities of wheat bran, which, he says, is one of the best regulators and builders in the whole list of foods. It is a mistake for persons to turn up their noses at bran as an article of food because it is cheap. If it were put up in fancy boxes and marked up in price to a point where it would be regarded as more or less of a luxury, there would be a great deal more of it consumed, for it has a number of health-giving qualities which recommend it to all ages and conditions.

He Has Restored Thousands to Perfect Health and Strength

HE WANTS THE WORST CASES—the so-called incurable cases—the hopeless (?) cases in order to prove what his successful treatment will do. Ninety-nine per cent of his cures are performed in cases which have been pronounced incurable, and who have tried so many other treatments and taken so much medicine that they have become completely discouraged. These have come to Dr. R. S. Piper and have found health and happiness. Why not let him cure you?

DISEASES OF MEN—There are no diseases so destructive to the health, happiness and prosperity of man as Lost Vitality, Blood Poison, Syphilis, Stricture, Varicocele, Losses, Discharges, Urinary Troubles and other diseases from which men alone suffer. Such diseases rarely cause death, but they produce a condition of mental and bodily suffering that is worse than death. There are no diseases about which physicians in general know so little and treat so carelessly.

Because the subject is so delicate—and frequently so disagreeable—competent physicians are loath to handle it, and the same delicacy on the part of many patients causes their treatment to be neglected. Such a feeling may, perhaps, be natural, but there is really no cause for it. Ignorance, not vice, is most often the real cause of such diseases. Therefore do not neglect yourself by reason of false modesty. These afflictions are as legitimate a branch of medicine as diseases of the Heart, Lungs or Stomach. Seek proper means of relief at once, for neglect is fatal.

ALL DISEASES—All curable afflictions can be cured by Dr. Piper's treatment—many that others consider incurable—no matter how many remedies you have vainly tried—no matter how many other doctors have failed. Curing DESPERATE CHRONIC CASES is Dr. Piper's specialty. ARE YOU SUFFERING from belching of gas or food from the stomach, pain or distress in the stomach, breaking out on the skin, constipation, creepy or numb sensations in the limbs, the effects of an old illness, despondency, deep seated blood diseases, melancholia, loss of ambition, loss of vital energy, wasting diseases, epilepsy, fits, asthma, eczema, gall bladder trouble, varicocele, early abuses, headache, pain in the back or the side, dizziness, rheumatism, acute infections, auto-intoxication, nervous prostration, loco motor ataxia, dyspepsia, biliousness, heart disease, kidney and bladder disease, lung trouble, catarrh of the head, diseased eyes, deruced vision, female diseases, nervous exhaustion or any evidence of breaking down in MAN or WOMAN?

Thousands have been cured in the past—many just like your case. Won't you let him cure you? A friendly call may save you future suffering; it has made life anew to thousands who have been pronounced beyond help.

MOST everybody reads the ads in this paper. They furnish as much news to the man in town and on the farm as the personals, and often more. Peter Smith's wife wants a new hat. Smith sees by the paper that Jones is selling hats at so much. Johnson's store ad. is missing from the paper—Johnson's trying a non-advertising policy.

RESULT—Jones gets Smith's money
Smith's wife gets her hat.
